

SAUNTERINGS

By JOHN T. MEYERS.

"THEY'RE OFF!"—a thrilled and excited crowd of race horse fans, estimated at 12,000 by sports writers, voiced this familiar expression Monday afternoon as the starter's gun sent the galloping thoroughbreds around the newly constructed Alamo Downs race track. Alamo Downs is located eight miles from downtown San Antonio amid a picturesque setting of rolling hills in the distance.

This beautiful horse racing project was constructed at a cost of approximately $400,000. Admission to grand stand and paddock is $1, including tax. Parking space for automobiles is free. The present race meet will last 18 days. Legalized pari-mutuel betting prevails.

WITH opening of Alamo Downs, San Antonians have suddenly become race horse conscious. On the streets, in office, shop, and cafe conversation is interspersed with terms of the turf. Horse racing was outlawed in Texas for some time until a recent act of legislature returned "the sport of kings" to good graces. As a result several excellent race tracks have come into existence in larger cities over the state.

RACE NOTES: A group of diminutive jockeys giving the town the once over. Loud checkered suits, and diamond horseshoe stick pins are back in circulation. Cigar stores selling red hot horse race tips, and racing dog sheets in an eager market. And the stuttering bet explaining the rudiments of betting a horse on the nose, to show, or place for benefit of his sweet, but dumb, lady friend.

WHILE enroute to church early Sunday morning four children were killed and three others injured when the truck in which they rode was demolished at a street crossing by a fast M. K. & T. passenger train. The driver of the truck, a Sunday school teacher, also received serious injury.

Three of the dead children were members of the same family. They were: Sylvan Book, 14; Wenford Book, 12, and their sister Mary Book, 5 years of age. The fourth victim was Susie Clark, age 14 years. Joint funeral services were held for the four young victims of this horrible tragedy on Monday. Sunday school and grade school classmates acted as pallbearers.

LIDS were clamped tight today in most places openly selling bonded liquor. Mayor Quinn issued orders last Saturday that sale of "fire water" offered for sale at bars and cafes over the city must cease at 12 noon Monday. Texas' prohibitive dean law has not as yet been repealed by necessary vote. Some claim the mayor's drastic action was prompted by recent "spot shooting" between rival booze gangs. Others believe pressure was brought to bear by ministers clamoring for drastic action against a wave of wide open gambling and lawlessness that has existed in San Antonio recently.

Quien sabe? But as a result the mayor's stern edict only beer bottles remained on the majority of dealers' shelves after the appointed deadline.

The old saying about a cat having nine lives must likewise be true of gangster rats. Maybe the tide will change and these outlaws will receive just dues before long.

TODAY is the birthdate of Ulysses S. Grant, 18th. president of the United States. Grant was born in 1822, of Scotch ancestry, Methodist faith and an army officer by profession. Ft. Pleasant, Ohio, was his birthplace, he became president at the age of 46 years, served two terms of office. The Chicago fire, 1871, and the big panic of 1873 occurred during Grant's presidency. Grant died in 1885 at the age of 63 years and is buried in New York City.

THE devil has packed his grip and is off on the creek fishing these days. Retired you ask? No, not exactly Old Nick is just keeping out of sight since Sister Aime McPherson hit town with her revival services.

"This town isn't big enough for us both," the devil is quoted as remarking to the sporting goods man who traded his pitch fork for a rod and reel.

Overwhelmingly In Favor of Legalizing Hard Liquor, Report

Mississippi newspapers considered the submission of the "hard liquor" law to the people as one of the big news items of the days of the legislature, almost every paper giving considerable space to details of the bill which calls for a referendum on July 10. It is difficult to tell just what public sentiment is in Mississippi, but of one thing we are convinced, and that is that our state legislature, particularly the house of representatives is overwhelmingly in favor of legalizing and taxing "hard liquor."

There were thirty-six young girls participating, representing Bay St. Louis and Waveland business firms. Here were gorgeously gowned young buds, their appearance enhanced by their rare beauty and dazzling personality and indeed with such array it would seem difficult to decide the winner.

Kidd" was adjudged the winner of the contest, with Miss Mary di Benedetto of di Benedetto's Store, second; Miss Catherine Saucier, of Miller's Beauty Shoppe, third and Miss Kathryn Quintini, representing Matchler & Ashton's Coast Serve Self Store, fourth.

A silver loving cup and the title of "Miss Bay Saint Louis of 1934" was given to the winner of the contest.

Miss Katherine Adam of Pass Christian, selected in a beauty contest held at that place last week as "Miss Pass Christian" was the honor guest of the evening.

The event was one of beauty and interest throughout and handled in efficient manner by Mr. Jas. B. Harte, who was equal to the task of directing such an event and his ability and experience served him in good stead. The Nite Club was filled to capacity attesting to the popularity of the contest.

A ball followed, lasting until the wee small hours with Louis Caron's Orchestra furnishing the music, and the affair ended crowned with all the success possible to have been achieved. Mr. C. A. Breath and Mr. Harte are to be complimented on their success.

Macon Passed Over Mississippi Gulf Coast; Is Now At Miami

Miami, Fla., April 23—Proud of their first cruise across the continent, officers and men of the naval dirigible Macon were busy today reconnoitering the huge craft for the Caribbean war games.

The Macon moored at the Ops-Locka mast here at 7:12 P. M. (E. S. T.) yesterday after a 54-hour flight from Sunnyvale, Calif., which Commander A. H. Dressel said was probably a new trans-continental record for lighter-than-air craft.

The actual Coast-to-Coast flying time, he said, was about 48 hours, the Macon had both to fly several hundred miles southward in California and Florida, and idle here several hours before mooring.

Passes Over Gulf Coast.
The Macon, brilliantly lighted, passed over Gulfport Sunday morning at 3 o'clock with the roar of its engines sounding like a huge fleet of motor boats putting out to sea. The craft appeared to be flying at an altitude of three or more thousand feet and rapidly disappeared from view.

FOUR HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

A party of Gulfport young people composed of Katherine Bowen, Yvonne Patrick, Martha Johnson and Dudley Eccles were injured in an automobile accident last Sunday night near 12 o'clock at the west end of the Bay St. Louis auto bridge when an automobile, driven by Miss Bowen crashed into a truck parked on the bridge, without tail lights. The party was returning from Baton Rouge after attending a dance at L. S. U. when the accident occurred. Miss Bowen sustained a broken leg, a scalp wound and minor bruises. Miss Patrick sustained a number of cuts and bruises but not of a serious nature. Miss Johnson received a bad scalp wound and painful bruises and Mr. Eccles suffered a broken nose and painful eye and head bruises.

Members of the Gulfport party were brought to the local King's Daughters hospital, where treatment was given. Later Miss Bowen was taken to the King's Daughters hospital at Gulfport and Miss Patrick, Miss Johnson and Mr. Eccles were taken to their homes in Gulfport.

There were several negroes in the parked truck, and only one was badly bruised, the others escaping injury.

The negroes in the parked truck said their gas line had become disconnected and they had tried to fix it without success and had just started up when the Bowen car struck them. The negro driver of the car was placed in jail and will be given a hearing at a later date.

Attempted Robbery at W. A. McDonald Store

Bound and gagged by two armed men at 10:30 Monday night, Mitchell Witter, 19-year-old watchman for the W. A. McDonald Wholesale Supply Company, freed himself and notified police of the robbery attempt. The police arrived at the scene in time to see the men leaving in a gray coupe. Mark Oliver, night policeman, pursued the car on the Old Spanish trail to the "Y" having to give up the chase when his car ran out of gas. A check-up at the scene revealed that nothing had been stolen.

PLAN TO OBSERVE CHILD HEALTH DAY TUESDAY, MAY FIRST

Adult Citizens Urged To Think of Needs of Children

On May 1st, groups all over the nation will be observing the tenth anniversary of the inauguration of National Child Health Day. Since the first observance of the day, interest has grown and more and more have various groups seen the vital part they could contribute to the general success of this worthy movement.

What does National Child Health Day mean to Bay St. Louis? It may be that no organization in this community is observing, with proper program, this day especially set apart. Even though this is so, every man, woman and child in Bay St. Louis, as well as in the entire nation, is vitally affected by the sentiment which underlies the celebration.

Are the children of Bay St. Louis as healthy as they should be? Oh, we know rich Mrs. Brown's children are well taken care of but how about the children of poor Mrs. Jones, the seamstress?

Every child should have, as its heritage, the proper environment for a healthy and happy childhood. There should be provided places for children to play—for play they must and will. These playgrounds should be supervised by directors capable of training the children in their play and developing in them the character building qualities of fairness, honesty, generosity, kindness and a spirit of cooperation with others.

If the funds of the community do not permit such an expenditure, surely there are generous citizens who would turn over to the town vacant lots where children can play and other public spirited adults who would be willing to give of their time to help the children of this community.

Let's be sure that Bay St. Louis can't afford such playgrounds, however, before we discuss the subject. It may be an outlay of cash for the immediate future but if through the establishment of such play facilities for the children only one boy is kept from developing into a criminal, wouldn't the cost be justified? We think it would.

While play is an important part of every child's life, still there are other things which are just as necessary. Proper food, adequate sleep and the training in personal habits which are essential to good health should be included in the program of every child. The schools can help wonderfully if they will cooperate in this endeavor.

We hope that every citizen of Bay St. Louis will appreciate the importance of National Child Health Day next Tuesday and will resolve to do his or her part in making Bay St. Louis a healthier and better place for its children to live in.

Operation of Living Heart Described By Surgeon's Friends

How Doctor Carroll W. Allen, chief of staff at the Southern Baptist hospital, who died April 14, held a living man's heart in his hand and then extracted a .38 bullet from the heart, was described Friday by associates of Dr. Allen.

The heart, Dr. Allen's friends said, felt like a bullfrog struggling to get away, and Dr. Allen was able to hold it in his hand without hurting it.

The patient was a 24-year-old shooting victim from Newbern, Miss., who had been taken to a D.L. Miss. sanitarium on December 5, 1926, and who had seemed to be not seriously injured until doctors, after a close examination, discovered a bullet firmly imbedded in his heart.

Dr. Allen, called on his first heart case, operated at once, cutting what he called a trap-door flap in the side of the patient, so that the heart was plainly visible. He divided the ribs so that he and his assistants could reach in and take the heart in their hands. After feeling the organ carefully, they located the bullet and removed it with no trouble.

Ten days later the victim was discharged from the hospital.

Saturday on the Great Southern course, L. H. Barksdale of Pass Christian was low medal scorer with a card of 79. Joe Boardman of Gulfport was runner-up with 81 that included an eagle two on the 366-yard par four No. 9 hole. He made a long drive and holed his approach shot with a No. 6 iron.

In the second team match play on the Pine Hills course Sunday afternoon, Bryan Dodge made low score with an 81 and L. H. Barksdale scored an 82. Sixteen men comprised each team and the match was decided on the Nassau scoring system, with points compiled on the nine and 18 holes.

John D. Grace, one of the leading admiralty lawyers of New Orleans, and summer resident of Bay-Waveland section died at his home in Waveland, Tuesday evening at 7 p. m., at the age of 71 years.

His passing, a shock to his many acquaintances, was anticipated by his immediate family since last Friday. His health prior to then was good. He worked actively as usual at his profession until about two weeks ago, when he went to Waveland for a rest.

While in his Waveland home Saturday, a sudden brain affection caused him to fall to the floor. Thereafter he was confined to his bed, sinking steadily until the end came.

His entire immediate family was with him, the children being Mrs. Dr. T. A. Maxwell, Mrs. H. B. Cooley, Miss Virginia Grace and five sons, Matthew A., Edward H., Daniel H., Milton C. and Harold S. Grace. All the sons are members of a New Orleans law firm bearing their names with that of the father.

The elder Grace was born in New Orleans, the son of a family of Irish stock prominent in Kentucky. His father, John Morris Grace, settled in New Orleans shortly before his birth.

The young John D. Grace had an older brother, Matthew A. Grace, in the practice of admiralty law. The younger man read law with him, and was admitted to practice nearly 5 years ago. While engaged in some general practice, he concentrated his attention early on maritime law and continued to make a specialty of it for the rest of his life.

Pilot and Eng. eer.
He was a man of an industry and facility for detail, and improved himself particularly for the branch of law that he followed by studies for which Federal authorities qualified him as a first-class pilot and as a marine engineer.

His talents were recognized by other members of the profession, and for 17 years he lectured on admiralty law in the Tulane university law school. In testimony of their appreciation of an address of his some years ago, the Texas Bar association elected him an honorary member.

Mr. Grace was genial and convivial to a large degree. He had several hobbies, among which boats and the handling of them was the chief. He gave a great deal of leisure time to professional studies and contributions to law periodicals.

Mr. Grace married Miss Virginia Huey, a native of New Orleans, and she survives her by only three or four years. The remains were removed to New Orleans Wednesday and were interred in the family plot in Metairie cemetery. Funeral services were privately conducted at 2 P. M. from the Grace home at 7602 Hampson street. Mr. Grace was a member of the congregation of Mater Dolorosa church.

U. S. LOSES SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE.

IT IS interesting to observe that the United States has lost her leadership in South American trade, largely due to recognition in many countries of the principle of "Buy from those who buy from us."

Unable to borrow money in the United States to pay their bills, most of the Republics have restrictions on imports to decrease unfavorable trade balances and are striving to stimulate local industries.

The effects of these factors can be seen in the loss of our predominant position in Argentina, where practically everything that is exported competes with the products of our farmers. Just now, the United States purchases seven percent of Argentina's exports and will be permitted to supply only seven percent of her imports, instead of the twenty-nine percent which we supplied in 1929.

Argentina also boasts some 20,000 factories, mostly established during the World War, and expanding rapidly under protective tariffs.

The lesson to be learned, it seems to us, is that if we expect to sell American merchandise and farm products to the outside world, we must inevitably be willing to accept products of some kind or another in return. The late breakdown of international trade is conclusive proof of the fact that the object of permanent trade is barter between nations and not, as many believe, the sale of goods in return for money.

BEGGAR AND DICTATOR.

DECLARING "business cannot at one time be both beggar and dictator," C. F. Hughes, writing in The New York Times, calls attention to the complaints of business men and their talk of "regimentation," "bureaucracy" and other similar terms.

He frankly points out that sometime ago business was standing before the government, hat in hand, asking and getting greatly needed financial assistance. Now that there seems to be the beginning of a real recovery, the attitude is to dismiss the government, although the business man or financial representatives are fully aware "that no such tactics could be employed in a private transaction."

They know that a bank which lends money to a customer for business purposes expects its advice to be taken and, if necessary, will put its own executive in office to see that the orders are carried out. However, they want to use the government's money and power and take the country and the treasury for a ride.

SCHOOLS SHOULD TAKE NOTICE.

REVIEWING the relations between the United States and the twenty other Republics of the Western Hemisphere, Secretary of State Hull insists that they are on a sound foundation but he emphasizes the importance of "fostering closer cultural ties between the nations of this continent."

One of the things which Secretary Hull urges is more attention to the history of Latin America, saying that the record of the development of democratic institutions on this Continent is a matter of vital interest.

The Sea Coast Echo calls the observations of Secretary Hull to the attention of school trustees and principals in Hancock county, with the hope that some action will be taken along the line suggested. Certainly, some of our schools are paying too much attention to the languages of Europe and not enough to those spoken by our neighbors on this side of the Atlantic.

For the period of approximately fourteen months, the country has had the benefit of a Democratic administration. In order to justify the use of the word "benefit" some are inclined to resort to statistics, and statistics may be made the ammunition of the major opposing party as well. Figures are interesting but weary and misleading. Patrick Henry said that he knew of but one light to guide his feet, namely the lamp of experience. Those who really wish to find out whether anything has been accomplished will do well to use their own eyes and brains. When that has been done it will be obvious that the present Spring is breaking upon the earth amid a domestic peace and security to which the corresponding season of two years ago was an utter stranger.

So far as our statistical department has been able to learn reading a good book never hurt anybody.

Workers who get late for their daily tasks seldom delay leaving when the afternoon whistle blows.

There are people who refuse to pay their debts when they have the money but the vast majority of citizens will gladly pay when the cash is available.

We have an article on town beautification, which we thought we would print about this time of the year, but the subject ought to carry its own argument.

HIT DEPRESSION ON THE CHIN.

ONE reason why revival of the construction industry is regarded as being so vitally important to recovery by most authorities is that the bulk of the employment it would provide is where it is most needed—among skilled and unskilled laborers.

In 1930, 2,500,000 persons were employed by the building industry. About 1,000,000 more were employed in construction work in other industries, bringing the total to 3,600,000. Managerial, professional and office workers constituted less than 12 per cent of these. The ratio was 7 or 8 wage earners to 1 "white-collar" employee.

Again, it is reliably estimated that for every worker actually employed on a building job, another worker is employed behind the line in industries supplying necessary supplies. The upshot is that, in normal times, more than ten per cent of all the workers of the country are directly or indirectly dependent for their livelihood upon the building industry. The terrific drop in construction work that came with the depression was as a result, very possibly the largest single factor in causing unemployment.

Today American industry is expanding as rapidly as it can. And the individual should follow that lead, by building and repairing his own property now, while prices are still down. A national movement among home-owners to renovate their property would be a blow directly to the chin of depression.

ENCOURAGE ADULT EDUCATION.

PROMINENT educators throughout the country are urging that more attention be paid to adult education and that adequate means be provided by which that portion of our population can pursue studies to make them more efficient and present them with a broader outlook on life in general.

The Echo has observed a tendency on the part of school trustees and educational leaders to consider the field of education completely filled by our present school system, beginning with the pre-kindergarten class and ending with the post-graduate work in our great universities. They apparently forget that large numbers of the people in this country are compelled to stop their education with nothing more than a high school education and that, in most communities, there is little or no effort made to provide opportunities for them to continue their studies.

The idea, we know, will strike some people as fantastic, but there is little real reason why there should not exist in Hancock county ample opportunity for adults to supplement their education. In fact, something along this line has been attempted as an emergency work, notably in the adult classes and in more permanent form, in the work being done by home and farm agents and agriculture teachers throughout the country.

BASEBALL MAKING GAINS

WITH the opening of the baseball season, it is interesting to recall that baseball is being played in many countries of the world.

Notable is the progress that the game has made in Japan, where crowds of 60,000 are not uncommon. Soviet Russia has found a place for baseball in its athletic program and the game is well developed in Africa, North and South. A league of eight teams operated in Johannesburg last summer and other teams have made tours through the Transvaal. Incidentally, it is said the standard of play is very high.

In South America, Venezuela boasts teams in several cities and inter-city rivalry has been established among the enthusiastic fans.

The game is also played to a limited extent, it is said, in France, Italy, Spain, Portugal and Roumania. Something like 65,000 spectators were reported present at a game in Barcelona in 1930 where a picked French team won from the best Spanish nine. Moreover, in Mexico, Cuba and the Philippines there are many devotees of the national pastime of the United States.

DIFFICULTIES OF POLICE OFFICERS.

AMERICANS who are prone to criticize the work of law enforcement officials in this country should be interested in the opinion of Dr. Harry Sodeman, professor of Police Science at the University of Stockholm. He declares that the "American detective is overworked" as compared with those of Europe.

Dr. Sodeman, in the April issue of a police magazine, calls attention to certain factors which aid criminals in this country. He is thoroughly familiar with European methods of criminal investigation having studied police systems of a number of countries.

Calling attention to the dozens of foreign races and creeds, foreign languages and last, but not least, the tremendous wealth awaiting successful criminals in the United States, he points out that law-breakers are assisted by the necessity of extradition between the states, the system of bailing out criminals, the old-fashioned laws of evidence and procedure which allows many criminals, caught by the police, to gain temporary delay or permanent liberty.

LOAN DISAPPROVED.

EUROPEAN nations which have defaulted in paying their debts to the United States Government are soon to find that the capital resources of the American people will be barred to them.

New York banks were recently invited to participate in a Dutch syndicate loan for the French Treasury but Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau advised the banks that, "it would be contrary to administration sentiment and the apparent sentiment of Congress to approve such loans."

Prior to the Secretary's announcement the Senate had passed the bill by Senator Johnson of California prohibiting loans of nations defaulting upon their debts to American Government, which it is expected will be likewise passed by the House.

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHELLING

LIBERALISM.

LIBERAL is the same word as the Latin "liberalis," which in turn comes from the word "liber" meaning free. That gives it a very good start indeed, because the one thing we pride ourselves on nationally is freedom, and the one word that charms most is liberty. In addition to this happy parentage, the dictionary gives several very attractive definitions. The one meaning that we are trying to get at is this: "Free from narrowness, bigotry, or bondage to authority or creed, as in religion inclined to republican or democratic ideas, as opposed to Monarchical or aristocratic, as in politics; broad; popular; progressive."

There are two opposed ideals in government, order and liberty. An excess of the first leads to tyranny and despotism. The liberal, knowing that power is always abused, and thinking of political power rather than of economic power, is always jealous of the government, and is disposed to sacrifice order to liberty.

We have never had a political party in this country calling itself by the name liberal, but we have all been more or less that way. We drove out our Tories after the Revolutionary War, and have been free from aristocracy as well as monarchy ever since. To get an example of a Liberal party we have to cross the water to Britain.

Until about a century ago political power there was in the hands of a hereditary, land-owning aristocracy, which controlled even the House of Commons. The noble lords made good money out of it too. To be a Liberal was as unfashionable, and even as irreligious, as to be a Red in America today. The Reform Bill of 1832 was passed after much agitation, rioting and threatened rioting. It transferred political power to the middle classes, the business and professional men, who formed the strength of the Liberal party. The poor people, the working men, had no vote and no representation. What friends the laborer had were in the Conservative, aristocratic party, these did not save him from a very bad time indeed. The Liberals made a splendid record of political progress, and produced great men and leaders, but they were emphatically a middle class party.

Economically they believe in the "laissez-faire" or "let alone" or "less government in business" doctrine. Their theory condemns factory regulation, child labor laws and all that sort of thing, because such laws restrict the liberty of the business man and give power to the government. They believe in free competition, free contract and free trade. Like the traditional Irishman they are "agin' the government."

The liberals are very strong in this country, but it is important, as well as interesting to note that in Britain and in Europe generally, where economic troubles are more serious and difficult than in America, they have nearly disappeared. Their place in Britain is taken by the Labor party, in other countries by Fascism, Socialism or Communism.

To explain this fact we have to contradict a part of the definition in the dictionary. The Liberal party is not especially broad or popular, because it represents the property rights of the minority rather than the human rights of the majority. It is no longer progressive, because it has won its old fight and is satisfied with conditions as they are. It is even reactionary in sentiment, for it wants to go back to the conditions of past years, and also ineffective, for it cannot use the only agency strong enough to control conditions. It has no answer to present-day questions.

The new fact which escapes general attention in this country is that the liberal of the last century has become the conservative of this century. Having won his fight he wants to rest on his victory. It seems odd to class Senators Borah and Reed together as conservatives, indeed the first named might consider it a foolish insult. Yet the two are voting together and making the same arguments. Senator Borah is a true liberal, a defender of the small business man and of the owner-farmer, but he is of the lower middle class. Probably none is more ready to denounce the abuses of power by the Mitchells, Insulls and Wiggins; but he has no method of preventing such abuses. He cannot devise any means of controlling such men without limiting competition and strengthening the government, which is precisely the thing his liberal principles prevent doing. He cannot suggest restricted laws that would not also apply to his own favored constituents as well as to more powerful business men. He is therefore forced into the conservative position of one who would rather "bear those ills we have than fly to others that we know not of."

When an employer vested with economic power over twenty thousand employees and their families defies the executive of the United States and threatens another secession, he is using liberal arguments based on liberal philosophy and economics.

Liberalism has a glorious record, to which today's conservatives appeal freely. It is too deeply rooted in American nature, as well as tradition, to disappear from our life, and our politics. The objection to it is that it is not working today, that it is not broad, popular nor progressive.

SPEECH IS SILVER—SILENCE IS GOLDEN.

(Clarion-Ledger)

HAD Carlyle lived in the days of the telephone it is probable that he would not have written that immortal axiom "Speech is silver, silence is golden."

It is certain that he would have made an exception of the telephone. The world of Carlyle's day could not have conceived of and the world of today can hardly comprehend the magnitude of the telephone industry. Telephone and telegraph statistics resemble the astronomical distances.

It is significant that the United States has 63 per cent of the world's telephones, Europe 26 per cent and the rest of the world 11 per cent.

It is also significant that there are 13.7 telephones per hundred population in this country, while Europe has 1.3 and Asia but 0.1.

Fifty years ago the telephone was an impractical invention, representing so much wasted time for an equally impractical inventor.

Now American people each year talk 20,500,000,000 times over the telephone, Germany has 1,852,000,000 conversations over the wire and Japanese hello-girls make 1,741,000,000 telephone connections each year.

Some importance must be attached to the fact that 71 per cent of the world's telephone lines are owned by private capital and that 88 per cent of the lines controlled by private capital are in the United States. Private ownership of the telephone, it is manifest, has been responsible for its growth in this country.

BEER TAX RECEIPTS

(Meridian Star)

IN THE first seven weeks of "legal beer" the state of Mississippi collected $65,103.29 in taxes. This amount is 65 per cent of the estimated annual receipts, and all indications are that the tax on the amber beverage will go far above the legislative estimate of $100,000 per year.

The state tax commission, on several occasions, has released figures that show receipts for the sales tax, the amusement tax, the tobacco tax and other special levies to be running ahead of estimates.

The money rolls in—and then rolls out.

Instead of tax reductions we have tax increases—

Instead of reduced appropriations we have increased appropriations.

The bigger the income for the state, the more "generous" the legislature is regarding outgo.

But for the legislator—

"Easy come, easy go."

(Daily Clarion-Ledger)

NOW that spring is here, and summer is just around the corner, the minds of millions are occupied with plans for vacationing. This is an unusual year for the traveler.

The mysterious exigencies of international exchange have made tremendous changes so far as paying for one's wanderlust is concerned. The current rate of exchange with most European currencies, for example, is much less favorable than it was a year ago.

That American dollar which used to be so potent has literally crunk in size in the foreign market. A dollar is not so potent as it once was, and it is not so potent as it will be when it is made more potent by the direction we want to go.

Liberalism defends the right of every man to drink whiskey. When a man exercises this right, gets drunk and beats his wife, extreme liberalism has no remedy to offer her. The only practical remedy in such a case is that of order restricting his liberty, the order being represented by a policeman.

hundred and fifty or two hundred of them are needed now in foreign countries to do the work one hundred did a year ago. However, in this country, the dollar is almost as large as it was a year ago.

The result is that where travelers used to first think of Europe, they are now looking elsewhere.

They're going either to countries where the money rate is favorable, or they are going to follow the old adage and stay at home and see America first, where they can get the most for their money.

Seeing America is an especially excellent idea.

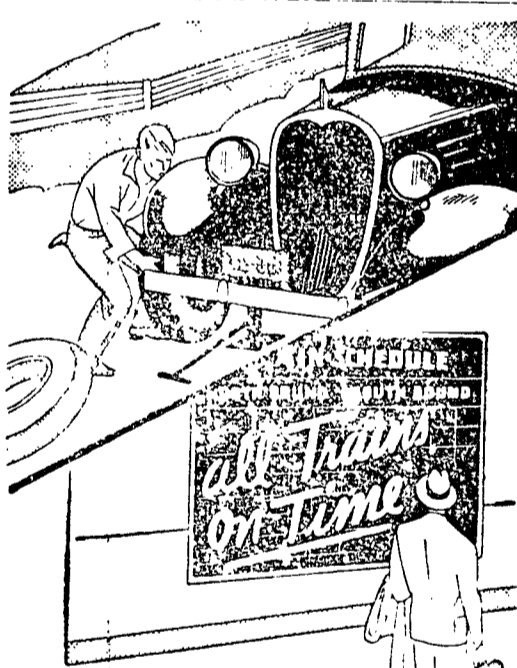

It's a big country—and very few of its citizens have more than a cursory acquaintance with it.

Take, for instance, Alaska, which is attracting a steady increasing number who want a vacation without spending a fortune. Most of us think of it in terms of ice—not knowing that certain sections produce giant strawberries and flowers.

We think of the Arctic circle as being as far away as the north pole—yet a little way south of it at Fairbanks, there is a first class school of mines, and an agricultural college. We think of the seas bordering it as being perpetually torn with storms—and the fact is that sailing to Alaska is almost always calm—with dancing on deck on warm evenings.

Yes, it's a fine year to look over your own home—the United States.

Prevent Fire Accidents In Homes.

It is high time for spring cleaning of fire hazards. One of the most common and easiest eliminated is accumulation of trash in attics, cellars, barns and garages.

Wherever piles of rubbish, paper and oily or paint soaked rags are tolerated, there is a constant invitation to fire through carelessly discarded matches, cigars and cigarettes, as well as spontaneous ignition. The first step in eliminating fire accidents, therefore, is a thorough clean-up of all trash.

Work with a paint brush is recommended, for a spic and span house seldom burns.

According to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, carelessness with matches and smoking materials is one of the greatest causes of fire ($30,000,000 in 1932). Continuation of high class losses to life and property from this source is an absolute disgrace. Matches should be kept in non-burning containers and out of the reach of children; handy ash trays should be provided and common sense should be exercised when using smoking materials and matches.

In the spring, when heat is no longer needed, is the time to clean the heating plant, repair it if necessary, and get it ready for next fall. Chimneys should be cleaned and inspected at this time.

Spring cleaning of fire hazards may require the services of others than yourself. All who thus employ workmen to help them, will be aiding the recovery program at a time when additional work for the unemployed is such a vital need. Do your part!

If you ever expect to succeed, you must carry out the idea that the other fellow is entitled to a chance. —Samuel Insull.

Reckless Walkers

Are you a safe walker? If you can't make an honest answer in the affirmative your life and health is literally in peril.

Last year automobile-pedestrian collisions accounted for 37 per cent of the 756,000 accidents which occurred on the streets and highways of this country. Deaths resulting from such accidents comprised 45 per cent of the total of 29,500 fatalities. In other words, pedestrians were involved in more than a third of all traffic misadventures—and the chance of fatality was greater than in other types of accidents.

Pedestrians crossing in the middle of the block proved the most hazardous—that caused 31 per cent of the fatalities. Careless walking on highways was responsible for 17 per cent. Children playing in the street came to 13 per cent. Walking out from behind parked cars into traffic accounted for 11 per cent, with the balance of 28 per cent laid to miscellaneous causes.

The careless pedestrian is a menace just as is the careless driver—but he receives less attention. Crossing against signals—playing hide-and-seek with parked cars—walking along rural roads with back to oncoming traffic—these are some of the surest means of courting death. Think over your walking habits—and correct them.

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS

(For The Sea Coast Echo)

ONCE again, the news comes that the Hays office is on a rampage and is determined to "clean up" the products of Hollywood that are offered to the public. The only fact that strikes a realistic note in the whole affair is the fact that since the first of the year, the Mays group has flatly rejected ten pictures, a greater number than ever before in its history. Six of the pictures were abandoned by the companies, while four were taken before a producers' jury, which as was to be expected, passed them.

However, the active opposition being recorded in various parts of the country by Catholic organizations, Protestants and Jews alike, has caused a definite tightening to be noticeable in the censorship boards and while the pictures of the near future may not be entirely purified, a very noticeable trend in that direction is evident. Maybe, before long, it may sink into the minds of Hollywood producers that movie fans are tired of filth.

Now, to a discussion of other things: Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., is making another of his swashbucklers, "The Private Life of Don Juan," in which he will have seven leading ladies. The film is being produced in Spain under the direction of Alexander Korda.

Following the completion of "The Last Gentleman," and the celebration of his 66th birthday, George Arliss left for his annual vacation in England. Included in the cast of his latest picture were Edna May Oliver, Ralph Morgan, Janet Beecher, Charlotte Henry and Frank Albertson.

Frederic March has been added to the cast of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," and will play the role of the poet Browning, Norma Shearer appears in the role made famous by Katherine Cornell and Charles Laughton will depict the demoniac father.

Eddie Cantor is expected in Hollywood around May 1st to make his fifth annual screen comedy for Samuel Goldwyn. Its temporary title is "The Treasure Hunt," Ann Sothern of "Let's Fall in Love" and "Melody in Spring" has been engaged for the feminine lead.

Plans for the production of "One More Spring" based on Robert Nathan's novel, are being laid pending the arrival of Winfield Sheehan from his trip to Europe in July. To date the principals in the cast include Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers and Warner Baxter.

It is rumored that Hal Roach is planning a full-length version of the comedy, "Lysistrata," although nothing definite has yet been announced.

Instead of appearing in "What Every Woman Knows," Helen Hayes is destined to become the heroine of Hugh Walpole's novel, "Vanessa," at MGM.

Paul Muni's next vehicle for Warner Brothers is thought to be "Border Town," from a recently published novel by Carroll Graham. Muni is said to be keenly interested in the story, which would give him the role of an American-born Mexican who decides he is very bitter about Gringo manners and thereby develops into the scourge of the Rio Grande.

In fact, a pound of that delicacy was enough to satisfy 150 who followed that urge to try anything once, even fried rattlesnake.

Harvey Dunbar, who long ago discovered that rattlesnakes are edible, was master of ceremonies. He began crunching a snake sandwich and invited the crowd to join him. Of the 500 in attendance, 150 shut their eyes and opened their mouths and ate slabs of rattlesnake which had been tastefully cooked.

The Reptile Garden, operated by the museum staff, is being rapidly replenished with new snakes. At least 100 died of pneumonia this winter but 31 pulled through. A total 14 was added to the garden this week, 11 of them being rattlers. —San Antonio Express.

THE ECHO'S COOKING CLASS

THE salad offers ample opportunity to the hostess, for displaying originality and delicacy of taste. The ingredients must be fresh and thoroughly chilled. During the warmer months the salad is ideal for the first course of every well planned dinner. Be sure to serve a light salad for dinner. The heavier salads, such as chicken, lobster, etc., are excellent for luncheon or supper.

Celery and Carrot Salad

Cut celery stalks in inch lengths. Mix equal amounts of grated cheese and grated carrots. Moisten slightly with mayonnaise. Add a few chopped nuts. Fill stalks and serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing.

Vegetable Bouquet Salad

Place your preferred mixture of vegetable salad on a lettuce nest. Top it with cooked cauliflower. Circle that with carrot slices cut in stars, surround with green peas. Lastly, have a circle of tomato sections or diced beets. With a sprig of parsley in the center of the cauliflower, you have an old-fashioned nosegay.

Lobster Salad

Make a marinade of ½ cup vinegar, ½ cup oil, the juice of two lemons, 1 teaspoon white pepper. Put this over the lobster meat and set in a cold place for several hours. Press the marinade mixture from the lobster and to one pint of lobster add the following ingredients: 3 hard boiled eggs cut lengthwise and across 3 olives cut fine, 3 pickles cut fine, ½ tablespoon of smallest capers, ½ tablespoon minced dill pickles. If celery is desired cut two stalks into narrow, thin strips and leave out one of the eggs. Toss this mixture lightly together and add mayonnaise enough to moisten the ingredients. Do not stir the salad, but move it lightly with a wooden spoon.

French Potato Salad

Boil potatoes with their jackets until they are done but still firm. Peel and slice them while hot; mix with a French dressing to which a little chopped olives has been added. Cool and let them chill. Pile on crisp lettuce and sprinkle with chopped parsley and paprika. Serve with stuffed eggs and boneless sardines.

Shrimp and Mayonnaise

Marinate 2½ cups cold cooked shrimps in French dressing. Chill thoroughly. Put in a shallow glass dish, sprinkle with capers and cover top entirely with mayonnaise. Garnish top with strips of green pepper and pimiento. Serve at table and have ready a bowl filled with crisp lettuce leaves and sliced tomatoes. Pour French dressing over this just before serving.

Pear Salad

Marinate pear halves in French dressing and chill thoroughly. Fill centers with guava jelly. Serve on crisp lettuce with a dressing made of 2 eggs, juice of 1 lemon, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1 tablespoon of butter.

Beat eggs until light, add lemon juice, sugar and butter gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until the mixture thickens. Cool and fold in ½ cup whipped evaporated milk or cream.
